The item that effected me the most at DLI was when the self repair garage at Ft. Ord was closed, several months ago, this makes it so that I must seek out privately owned garage at a much higher cost, I understand that the garage was underused, but at the same time the garage was underpublicized. Many people I have spoken to during the time that the garage was opne were unaware of its existence, the are many people here who prefer to do much of their own automotive repair.

Maintenance of sports equipment is lax at the Presidio of Monterey MWR and needs to be improved. The personnel there seem to know if there is something drastically wrong with the equipment, but do not have knowledge about how to prevent further damage, repair, maintain the equipment.

I do not use MWR very often because I don't feel that they have many programs that I am interested in or fit in my budget. I am very interested in some sort of swimming pool access. I compete in triathlons and right now have no access to swimming unless I pay $6 per day or swim in the Pacific Ocean at 50 degrees in this area. The base movie theatre also needs some attention this might be the only service I could truly enjoy but the quality is not very good on post.

I'm not really remotely interested in anything about MWR, besides a faint curiosity about skydiving and the piano at the Hobson Student Activities Center. I'm a geek and a "barracks rat" who prefers to spend all my free time doing things I already enjoy on the computer and internet. If I had to offer a suggestion, I think the best thing you could do for me (and for soldiers who are generally like me) would be to offer cheaper internet service to the barracks instead of letting an outside company like Sprint monopolize us and jack up the prices.

Oh, and the survey comments that on-post lodging is cheaper than outside sources? It isn't. I've checked around so that a military family member visiting the area next month could stay on post, and on-post lodging here is definitely mid-range at over $50 each night.

With the majority of my time at POM being spent learning my language, I haven't had time to participate in a lot of offered services. Another problem is the fact that the Presidio of Monterey is a small post and doesn't have the space to offer many services such as a Bowling Alley. However, I currently serve on my post's BOSS committee and through that, have a clear understanding of how MWR services benefit Army Life. Because of that I am a supporter of MWR and it's services.

Throughout this survey there were several questions which had answers that were not relevant but a reply had to be given. There is no bowling center here on the installation, nor is there a self help automotive center for people to use. The automotive center is specifically an issue as we have so many students who would take care of their own vehicles if they had the appropriate tools and a location to do so. I cannot count the number of times people have been in discussion about having a bowling center in the ORD Military Community. The only bowling available is in Downtown Monterey and they have a heavy toll for bowling since they know that they are the only place in town to bowl.

Event tickets are nice to have access to, especially with reduced pricing.
Travel arrangments are usually more convenient to go commercial. My family life is limited by virtue of my service in the armed forces. The last thing I want to do is restrict my leisure travel to fit the limited dates and times offered by on-post facilities. If time is money, I'll pay to have more time. I only have so much time with my family... and it's way more precious than frittering it away waiting for a cheaper flight, or tour or hotel etc.

While the MWR program at POM is great for the Soldiers and families assigned to the location our unit is 90 minutes away and makes routine use of the post facilities unreasonable. The facilites that are at the camp do not support the Active Duty Soldier's assigned there.

Before asking questions on certain topics, must first find out if the post has the facility, i.e., bowling alley. Otherwise, answering the questions doesn't make sense if we don't have it.

At the Presidio of Monterey, CA, it is limited what it has to offer. For example, we only have movie theater, automotive facility, MWR, gym, outdoor facility, golf course, golf shop, outdoor rec. equipment; that's it. No bowling alley, no arts and crafts, etc.

The MWR here does not update their websites; therefore, internet information is somewhat outdated to this day. Tried e-mailing the web administrator but nothing happened. Phone line is almost always busy and difficult to get through. If the website is updated, chances are, the phone calls will be less since info. is already on the web.

ACS does not actively post/advertise what is going in their neck of the woods. Civilians are not allowed to take CPR-related courses due to budget constraints. It is very difficult to find out what is happening in ACS since it is so 'quiet' and does not alert the public on a regular basis.

Overall Comment

MOST of the questions are relevant ONLY to active duty military. Many of the MWR options/facilities are not available to civilians (such as Army on post lodging, yet there is a question about it with no applicable answer for a civilian to use...I ended up marking "no", although I am aware it exists for military). Since the military facilities are mainly (reasonably so) to support military families, why are you bothering civilian employees with this survey? Thanks for the thought, but gosh, I know darned well that the reason for this survey is to determine what more the military and their families want/need/are aware of. I'm happy you are doing that, but don't waste this (the time/money) on civilians who are not retirees!

Unfortunately almost all MWR services were closed at the Presidio of Monterey and Ord Community. The Club system along with the dining associated with it is greatly missed. It was one place where people that worked together could socialize, network, and get to know one another. The NPS Trident Room Club is excellent and I do go there often. Unfortunately hardly anyone from POM goes there. It is clean and well kept. The POM club needed updating and the food selection was never "club style" food like the Trident serves. A bowling alley and swimming pool would also be a great source of family oriented fun and exercise. I am very appreciative that the Outdoor Rec has been able to continue to provide tours and discounted tickets to all. I will continue to use their services. The movie theater is another good service, however the building and equipment need updating. I'm afraid it will become another MWR facility that will be closed due to the lack of customers, not because of interest, but because there is absolutely no upkeep in the building and equipment.

Without warning, the Edge Club discontinued operations. The Edge Club was open to all ranks of the military and civilians at DLIFLC and POM. This was a great place, especially after work on Fridays, to participate in a social environment in order to meet new people and network with current staff. The Edge Club also offered a place for the young to socialize and dance. A marked increase in off-post incidents have occurred since these young people are now forced to go off-post for entertainment.

When Fort Ord (my last active duty installation) closed the loss of the auto hobby shops and wood shops adversely impacted the leisure time activity of myself and many other active and retired military of all services in the local area.

A modern auto crafts and wood (seperate) shops would be a boon and offer diversion and an economical alternative to high cost auto services in this high-cost-of-living area.

I rarely go to the post, other than the PX. I have very little awarness of anything that goes on at the post.

I also find the liaison officer to be of little or no use. I had some questions about the open enrollment to the SBP and got bad information.

Thanks for your interest in our welfare.

I am not sure that the survey really pertains to me as a retired officer. There clearly are advantages for the single soldier (becoming harder to find) and the young married couple. In general, I feel that young married couples would have more to gain from a proactive approach to functions which involve them.

My spouse and I have been sorely disappointed with the continual reduction in Army services offered to our hardworking soldiers. In an era where pays and benefits always seem to be threatened, we seem to be bent on outsourcing all our benefits to our loss.

We would love to use the pool, but as off-post residents, we now have to pay, and this gets expensive. Saddest part is that we understand the pool used to belong to Fort Ord exclusively. I don't think anybody even minds CSUMB using it - but why don't they pay US to use it, and not vice-versa. This sends the wrong signal to us - it tells us that we are slowly getting marginalized. Every time a land re-use proposal gets evaluated, it is WE who invariably lose. Paying to use OUR pool? Losing our hiking and biking trails to East Garrison developers? Why can't we preserve our open space for our benefit before our bases are overrun with development? Pretty soon, we won't be able to use ANY Ft. Ord facilities at all.

Shame on POM for closing the auto skills center, which we used to love as a good money saver. The value-added benefit of this facility was incredible, and likely provided the most dollar-per-hour benefit of any MWR service. Why pay Jiffy-lube $60 for an oil change and tire rotation when we did it for next to nothing? My husband didn't mind paying for the stall fees - the satisfaction he got from learning about working and maintaining our cars was well worth the price. Worse, all the recently-refurbished equipment was tossed aside. In the interest of saving money, POM pushed the burden of car maintenance on the shoulders of its soldiers - who often don't have the $$ to pay for routine (and increasingly expensive) car maintenance.

The whole land re-use issue on Ord bothers us because it slowly feels like we are getting tossed aside.

It isnt all bad - the outdoor recreation center is GREAT - but admittedly, I use that less on a day-to-day basis than I would the pool, the theater, or even the auto skills center. Let's not penalize what is a model Outdoor Rec program, however...let's get the myriad of benefits back to our hardworking soldiers and send the signal that it IS a great thing to be a US soldier - on and off duty.

ACS Concerns far distance to travel

Overall Comment

It is not that I do not participate in the MWR services because I do not "want" to but because my husband is an army recruiter and we are stationed a lengthy distance away. Is it possible to have the Army represented in the Moffett Field area once or twice a week.

One comment that I would like to make is that, I along with many other Army families have taken advantage of the day care service available on Moffett Field. Due to the incompetence of the workers on that facility has caused myself as well as other wives, married to army recruiters, to quit our jobs to care for our children. What is amazinag is that majority of the day care providers are army wives. After addressing the head of the day care facility, Lee Fernandez, on that base nothing was done.

There is not much support for the Army Recruiter Families stationed in this area.

My morale and welfare would be a lot better if the army didn't so many bullshit extra things for my spouse on top of regular schedule, such as coming in for an early 5am formation just to make sure soldiers still have their ID cards (something they need everyday to get on base anyway!)

Also having drug tests on Sundays after exodus is fucking crap especially considering the army so pro religion.

And the overall sergent attitude treating us military spouses like we're their military bitches in the way that they think we have to obey orders... hell no!

I'm excited that housing has been privatized and new neighborhood facilities are being put in. We will not be here long enough to make use of them (this is mostly a training station, average stay 12-18 months). For families, I believe quality of housing and neighborhood facilities (parks, pools, picnic areas, indoor family rec facilities) are most important for quality of life and satisfaction with Amry life. I think it's vital to have long-term child care available (for working moms) -- it would be nice, though, if short term, occasional child care was easily available (for working out, doctor's appointments, etc.)

ACS Concerns difficult to get information

Overall Comment

Being off-post, I feel disconnected from the MWR and ACS services available. I did receive a welcome packet when we relocated here about 6 months ago, but most of the services offered were aimed at families with small children or some sort of family or financial crisis. The most important service to me at the time, employment counseling, was not available. I was interested in the gym and pool facilities at CSUMB, but these were only available to families who lived in post housing. While I am in school now, I am concerned about rumors that the Education Center will be closing. I was planning on using that resource to research a master's degree and my husband has been using the center since we arrived.

If I were to suggest some changes to improve the services offered, first I would concentrate on getting information out to the spouses, not just the service members. Information does not get home very often. While the flyers and bulletin boards located around the PX and commissary are helpful, I would like to see calendars of all the events or a guidebook of all services and phone numbers. The information I was given in my welcome packet is still sitting in a box because it was mostly flyers and pamphlets that don't quickly and concisely give me information on what's available. E-mails would be helpful to send announcements of new events/services.

I have tried to find out more on the services available from the Presidio website unsuccessfully. Links are outdated or don't exist. The main website design is hideous and far from user-friendly. I eventually found some information, but I don't think I could remember the series of links I had to navigate through to find anything.

It's hard to compete with off-post activities, so the only thing on-post can work on is price. I know ITR and Outdoor Recreation offer many interesting activities, but the tiny office has inconvenient hours and is practically always undermanned and crowded. Like at ACS, I found no calendar of events, just tons of individual flyers and there is no website to find out information on activities, let alone reserve or purchase tickets or equipment.

Since my husband is currently in school and we are living (temporarily) in Navy housing (contracted through a civilian company), we are not part of the local Army base, and do not use MWR as much as when my husband was in a regular Army unit (all of last year), so some of these questions are irrelevant to me right now. HOWEVER, I do think MWR serves a great purpose and for the most popular programs, I think the funding is definitely worthwhile. The most important programs to my family are: playground facilities, horseback riding, swimming pools, on-post lodging, off-post (vacation) lodging, and family festivals/activities. Thank you for providing this survey to find out what is important to Army families.

I would really love to see a carnival at Travis AFB in California, for only ID holders and family (w/ signing in a guest). Maybe huge fundraiser before Christmas to raise money to send care packages to the troops that are deployed. Some kind of huge BBQ to get the community together, hamburger/chips and soda $4.00, hotdog/chips and soda $3.50. Maybe a big movie premier BBQ. I have lots of ideas. I love getting people together because we are suppose to support each other and not hide in our homes. Maybe have some kind of package deal for people staying at MWR hotels like the Hale Koa, have family room rates and great rates for bigger families. What upsets me is that we don't make much off our pay grade, that you end up putting it back into something we work so hard for. I am a family of 6 and we have to save to go on a big trip to stay at one of the hotels you have, yes they are cheaper but...I would love to see a resort at the Walt Disney in California! This would be great and appreciated. Send out monthly calendars, via email or mail to people that want to sign up that way you don't lose out in postage. I have many ideas and if you would like I can be reached via email at bohvern@yahoo.com, my name is Veronica Bohorquez. Thanks for this survey, I would have responeded earlier, but one of my children put this in the back of my cupboard.

MWR/outdoor rec is designed to offer many exciting activities for the military members. The family members who are more sports-minded, will also find activities that support them. Concerts, wine tasting, shopping, excursions to Hearst Castle, San Francisco shows, etc, might have more impact on the family members if the information was provided via TV or e-mail directly to the family members. If they do not have occasion to pick up flyers or see info at a military facility, they do not get any information sent to them.

This is a very transient post and has some very special needs to help get family members more involved in their community. ACS or MWR/community support in-briefings are not given to all spouses upon arrival. Most of the officer wives that are not attached to a larger unit have no contact unless they seek out information themselves.

The challenges of the Presidio are numerous, but overall, MWR has done a good job at trying to meet the needs of the Military Members and their families here in Monterey.

Thank you!

Base is very disorganized!!!

Overall Comment

This Post was closed in "91" so it is very disorganized and the actual post is about 10-12 miles away in Monterey while the post is here in Seaside. The PX is a joke on the old Fort Ord, and is in danger of closing. The housing here is completely infested with bugs and it is very hard to get someone overhere to get that problem fixed. My husband has been in the Army 8 years now, and this is our 4th post we have been too, and this is the most disgusting over priced garbage of a house that we have had to endure yet. But being a military wife we learn to cope, but I must say this place has pushed me to my utmost last nerve!

Sincerely, Mrs. Halvorson

Although as a family we do not use many of the services offered at the post. It is VITAL to maintain these programs for the single soldiers and younger familys. The Army MUST take care of it's own. We are at a point financially were it is not an issue for us, But I fell very strongly that the programs continue. We did use the ski trips multiple times, and they were great.
